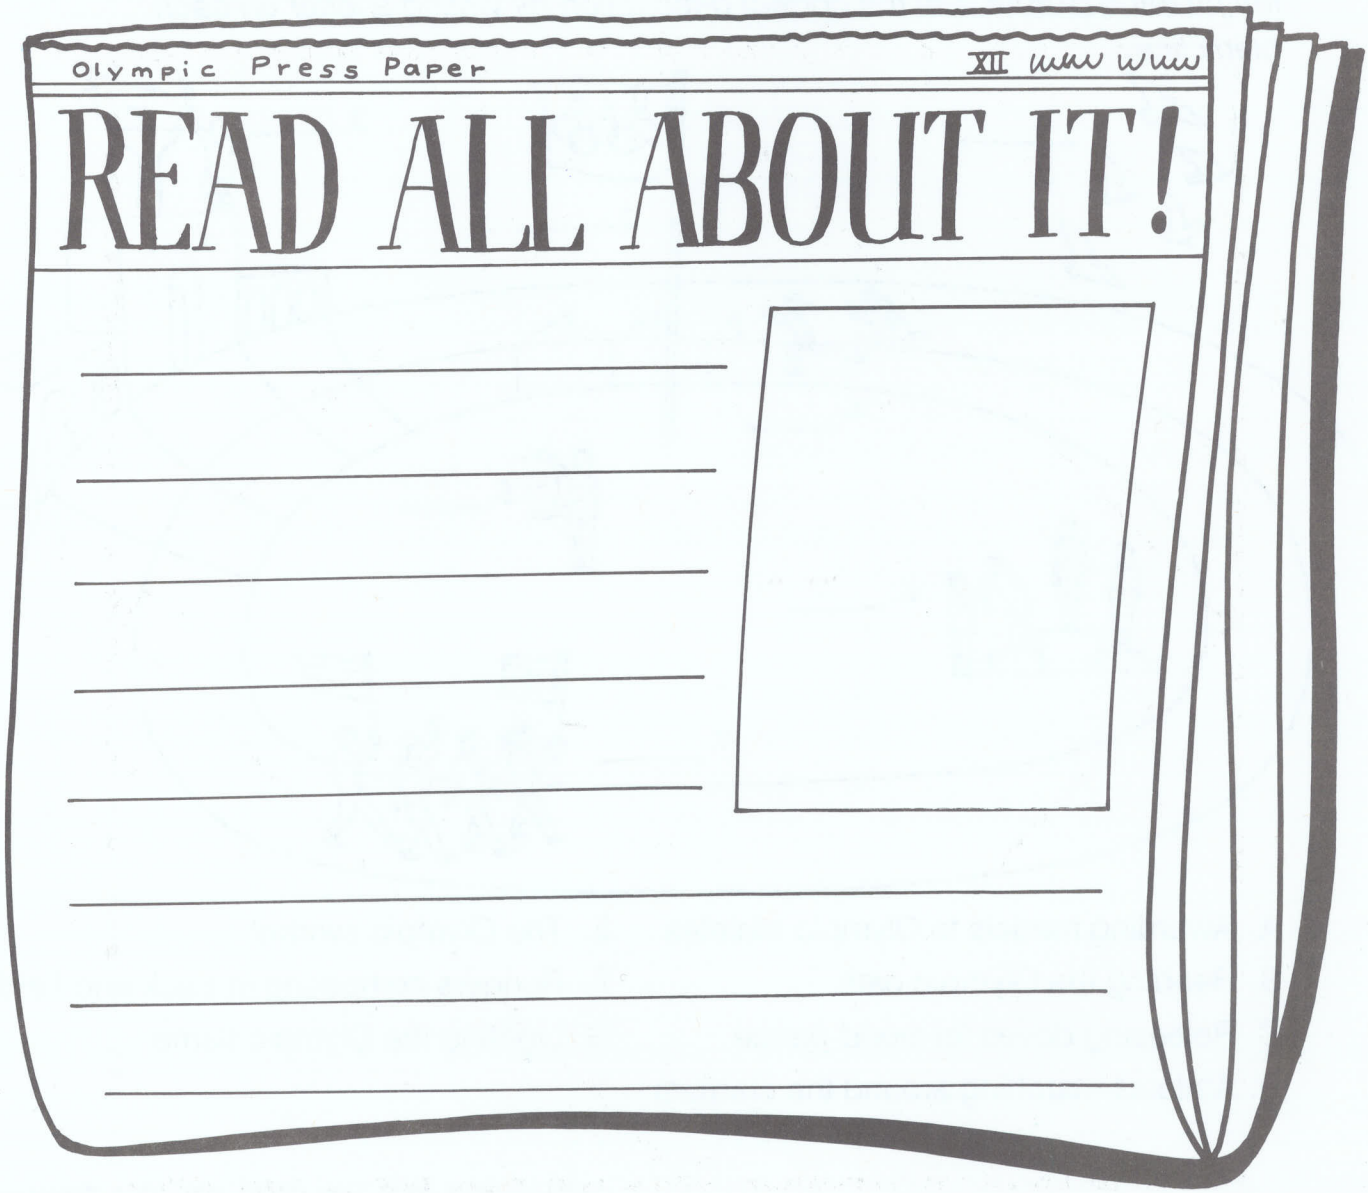
Special Athletes

Some athletes overcome special challenges to become champions. Wilma Rudolph suffered through polio, double pneumonia, and scarlet fever when she was a child. She could not use her left leg for several years, but she was determined to become a star athlete. Wilma Rudolph reached her goal in 1960 when she won three Olympic gold medals in track and field.


Write about a goal that you worked hard to reach. Fill in the newspaper article announcing your success.